LETTER FROM CHATTANOOGA.

The Election in Hattery G. 1st O. V. A.—They Vote for a Drait Body of General Lytte—Force in Front Bons bardment—Health of the Boys, &c.

(Correspondence of the Perrysburg Journal.)

CHATTANOGGA, TENN., October 14, 1813. EDS. JOURNAL: In Buttery G, on election day, the announcement was made, by Lieutenant Samnel Treat, that the ballot-boxes were all ready. and that if we had any desire for voting, three Judges must necessarily be chosen from our midst, Moore were chosen as Judges, and John Clinton Lake, Give him a call and John Wheeler, Clerks.

As the Battery had been raised in different parts of the State, it was necessary to have ten ballotboxes, that each voter might do his little good in the proper county. Wood county gave Brough sixteen, and no county gave Val any. Therefore, our Battery is considered loyal, and I am sure it out should be, while our guns look with scorn through their port-holes, in easy range of those who seek our destruction. It is reported, and I am sure it is so, that one of the Obio Batteries near here gave thirteen votes for that infernal traiter, Vallandigham. I think they fight as they vote. Our county officers were elected, so far as we could help. The election was conducted in good order, in every respect, during the whole day. Each soldier wrote on his ticket, before handing it to the Judges, "Draft, and not less than 600,000 more." This is our motto, and will continue to be until the robotlion is crushed by the overpowering force of North-

New and Useful Inventions.

It is well known to the majority of our citizens that our fellow townsman, William F. Veber, Esq., has been engaged for a number of years past in the construction of a wood-sawing machine, which in our opinion far surpasses anything of the kind heretofere gotten up. The machine is now fully completed, and on Saturday last Mr. Vebet received his papers patent therefor from Washington. As a model of ingentilty and skill, it is a complete sursess. The entire machine weighs less than four hundred pounds, is run by hand, and obviates the necessity of harding logs to the machine-in this case the machine may readily be moved to the log. It may be taken into the woods, and used in cutting saw-logs, &c., as well as for sawing wood. Mr. Veber informs us that one man can saw, with the machine, an average of one cord of wood per kour, and after seeing the operation of the machine, we do not consider this an over-estimate. The novel construction of the driving-wheel, whereby a great increase of motion and power is obtained, is the Any printer desiring such a situation, will do well first thing that will strike the eye of the beholder. to address this office immediately, by letter, stating | The wheel "must be seen to be appreciated"- and terms, &c.
